The POWER of GARLIC

GARLIC AND ITS HISTORY

Practically all the great events in the history of Garlic was present in all mankind. 6000 years before Christ, several peoples from Asia already knew and used the plant for medicinal purposes and in the use of cooking. According to archaeologists numerous tribes living in Asia Minor used to collect the plant in the field. Already in this period the plant was used in the preparation of spices and production of syrups .

Because of its high preserving power over food, garlic is no longer collected spontaneously and is now cultivated by farmers .A 4000 AC, Extensive swathes of arable land are now used for planting grass.

In both the Ganges River (India) and the Nile River (Egypt), the planting of garlic counted with hundreds of farmers and slaves in the countryside. The bigger the demand for the plant, which is more than the demand for the plant, and is even marketed in the Major cities in the ancient world It was in ancient Egypt that garlic came to be really recognized as medicinal plant and excellent herb for seasoning.

Practically the whole society Egyptian garlic was consumed during meals by members of the nobility Egyptian to peasants the habit of consuming garlic was frequent. She believed- It is believed that the consumption of garlic would allow a long and healthy life. It would prevent the emergence of numerous diseases and used to be treated as a plant energy. Recently, garlic paintings were discovered in temples religious in Egyptian holy cities.

The work dates from approximately 3500 AC, referred to the plant with divine powers. They were also found in inside some sarcophagi of pharaohs, dated medicinal manuscripts approximately 1200 AC .

Among the numerous recipes and comments on plants and animals, garlic has been mentioned several times in documents sacred Egyptians.

They described garlic as a sacred plant because it provided longevity to man. And some manuscripts, it was pointed out that it is important eat garlic frequently, as it could combat 22 diseases.

Heart problems, tumours and physical weakness were one of the diseases mentioned in the manuscripts. Garlic made a plant so admired and respected in Egyptian society that in some pharaohs' sarcophagi were garlic strings deposited. In the tomb of the young pharaoh Tutancâmon was found some garlic
